What is the Global Talent visa?

It is a visa that individuals working in specialist areas can apply for, that enables them to live and work in the UK for up to 5 years.

Unlike some other visa routes, you do not require sponsorship from an employer, or evidence of having already secured a job. Instead, you require an endorsement of your talent from a designated expert body in your field.

The Arts Council is the designated endorsing body for arts and culture.

The application involves an assessment that looks at 3 things:

- 3 letters of support from experts in your specialist field – each letter must support the opinion that you are a leader, or future leader in your field
- 10 pieces of physical evidence that prove you have recognition for your work, and that you are in demand and receiving professional artistic bookings (or that you have sufficient sales and distribution of your work if your work is not solely performance based)
- your full professional track record since education – in addition to the 10 pieces of evidence and the 3 letters of support you must also submit a full artistic CV. Altogether your CV, supporting evidence and letters of support must satisfy us that you are at an appropriate stage of a professional career, to be considered a leader or future leader in your field.

If you receive the visa you can extend your stay for up to a further 5 years, or you can apply for settlement (indefinite leave to remain). When applying for an extension or settlement you would need to prove that you have been in paid employment in the specialist field you were endorsed under during your stay.

What other routes are available?

Global Talent is not the only visa route for artists and creatives. Tier 2 (Skilled Worker) and Tier 5 (Temporary Worker) visas are also available.

Information on other routes and how to apply, can be found on the GOV.UK website.

Who can apply?

Talented and promising professional individuals over the age of 18, from any country outside of the UK can apply for the Global Talent visa.

- Exceptional Talent is the route for those who are leaders in their field
- Exceptional Promise is for those who have the potential to become leaders in their field

The visa application process is in 2 stages – stage 1 is where you apply for an endorsement, and stage 2 is the visa application. You must obtain an endorsement of your talent or promise from an ‘endorsing body’ to be able to receive the visa.

As an endorsing body we use our expertise to assess applications from those working in the following areas:

- Arts and Culture - Combined Arts, Dance, Literature, Music, Theatre and Visual Arts

We also have an agreed understanding with 3 external bodies, who use their expertise to assess applications from different areas of cultural practice on our behalf:

- The Producers Alliance for Cinema and Television \(Pact\) will assess applications from those working in film, television, animation, post production and visual effects industries
- The British Fashion Council \(BFC\) will assess all applications from fashion designers on our behalf
- The Royal Institute of British Architects \(RIBA\) will assess all applications from architects and architectural designers.

Our Guide for Global Talent applicants has more specific information about eligibility criteria, the evidence you must provide and the areas of practice we can and cannot support.

How do you make decisions on applications?

It is our role to use our expertise and knowledge to carry out a detailed assessment of the supporting documents submitted with an application. During the assessment we (or Pact, BFC or RIBA) will determine whether the evidence overall provides appropriate recognition of talent or promise within the arts and culture sector, and whether the applicant is a leader, or a potential leader in their field.

We assess all applications against eligibility criteria that has been set out and agreed between us and the Home Office.

As the assessment is purely evidence based, this means that to meet the required criteria for endorsement, the documents you submit with your application must sufficiently prove your exceptional talent or promise. If there is insufficient physical supporting evidence proving your talent or promise, we cannot recommend endorsement.

All applicants (and anybody acting on their behalf) should read the latest GOV.UK guidance and the Immigration Rules, alongside our Guide for Global Talent applicants before applying.

How long does it take to process applications?

Our service level agreement with the Home Office is to return all decisions within no more than 8 weeks of an application being sent to us by the Home Office. We advise all applicants to plan around this maximum timeframe.

We do not provide a fast-track service.

The Home Office will notify you of our recommendation and how to progress to stage 2, or what to do if endorsement has not been recommended. The stage 2 application is made via the Home Office, we are not involved in this part of the process. It can take up to 8 weeks for the stage 2 decision to be received.

What if I don't have awards at my stage of career, or my area of practice does not have recognised awards?

Arts and culture applicants:

To be eligible for the visa, in addition to your 3 letters of support and CV needing to meet criteria, you need to meet the criteria in at least 2 of the 3 evidence categories. These are media recognition, international awards, and proof of appearances.

If you have no evidence of awards this is fine, as you can just rely on media recognition evidence and proof of appearances.

If you have no media recognition for your work, then you can rely on evidence of awards and proof of appearances.

If you have no evidence of appearances, then you can rely on media recognition and international awards evidence.

If you have evidence in all 3 categories then you can submit in all 3, which may give you a stronger chance of endorsement if our assessment finds that your evidence in 1 of the categories fails to meet criteria.

If you are not able to provide the required level of evidence, then this visa would not be the best route for you. Information on other routes can be found on the GOV.UK website.

The application process can be expensive so we would advise that all applicants fully read all available guidance before starting an application – specifically our latest Guide for Global Talent applicants.

Only apply if you are certain that the visa is right for you, and you can provide the required evidence to meet the published criteria. Please contact us if you have any questions.

Film, television, animation, post production and visual effects, fashion design or architecture applicants:

Please see our Guide for Global Talent applicants for more information about the evidence you must be able to provide in these areas.

For film, television, animation, post production and visual effects applicants there is also more detailed information about the evidential requirements in the FAQs section of the Pact website here.

I am a member of a group, so I do not have evidence for my individual work. What evidence can I provide?

We understand that for members of groups, such as (but not limited to) orchestras, dance companies, arts collectives, or bands it can be difficult to provide evidence of media recognition, awards or appearances that single out their individual contribution. However, this does not mean that individuals such as this are not eligible for the visa, as there is some flexibility in our criteria for these individuals:

Exceptional Talent	Exceptional Promise
Media Recognition - if you do not have media recognition where you are named, you can provide evidence related to the work of another individual or group that you significantly contributed to instead. Along with the media piece you must provide a supporting letter from the individual named in the review, or from a senior person (such as the director, producer or manager) that has responsibility for the group being reviewed. This letter must be separate to the three letters of support and must detail how you significantly and directly contributed to the work being reviewed. International awards - if you have not won an award as an individual, you can provide evidence of making a significant contribution to an award won by another individual or group. Along with the award evidence you must provide a letter from the individual that won, or from a senior person (such as the director, producer or manager) that has responsibility for the group. This letter must be separate to the three letters of support, and it must detail how you directly and significantly contributed to the work that won the award. Proof of appearances – if you do not have proof of individual professional appearances, you can provide proof of	Media Recognition - if you do not have media recognition where you are named, you can provide evidence related to the work of another individual or group that you contributed to instead. Full details regarding each evidence category for all applicants is in our Guide for Global Talent applicants.

EEA Nationals and EU citizens

Following the UKs exit from the European Union (EU) all European Economic Area (EEA) nationals and EU citizens need a visa to live and work in the UK. The Global Talent visa is therefore one of the visas now available for these individuals.

Further information can be found on the GOV.UK website.

What responsibilities will you have for visa recipients when they have entered the UK?

Individuals that receive a visa must support themselves during their stay, in accordance with GOV.UK regulations. We do not have any responsibility for visa recipients.

You cannot apply for public funds (such as benefits, tax credits and housing allowance) but you could apply for grant funding from us, such as Arts Council National Lottery Project Grants and Developing your Creative Practice. These grants come from National Lottery funds, not public funds.

Is there a limit on the number of endorsements the endorsing bodies can make?

There are no limits on the number of people that can enter the UK through the Global Talent route.

COVID-19

The pandemic greatly affected the arts and culture sector and individual's ability to work, by restrictions placed on travel, cancelled and postponed events and many other reasons.

We still need to see evidence of your past work from within the last 5 years so that we can see you have been in demand and working. Even if you did not work during the pandemic we would still expect you to be at an appropriate stage of career to have had bookings in the 2 years prior to the pandemic, found new ways of working during the pandemic and have been receiving bookings since the sector has reopened, as long as all of the evidence provides is for professional work.

Evidence related to bookings that were cancelled or postponed due to the pandemic would unfortunately be ineligible. Evidence of future bookings that haven't taken place yet at the time of application would also be ineligible.

Stage names / Pen names

You need to enter your full legal name that is shown on your passport on the application, and the endorsement and visa will be granted in this name.

The application form does allow you to provide any other names that you use or have been known as – such as stage or pen names, aliases, maiden or married names.

If any of your evidence shows a different name to your legal name this is allowable, as long as you have entered all your other names on your application form.

Your letters of support can refer to you by any other names, but they must also reference your legal name.

If there are any differences in spelling of any of your names used in any of your evidence, you should explain this in the application.

Students or recent graduates

We do expect to see that all applicants have had sufficient professional experience in the last 5 years and are at an appropriate stage of a professional artistic career since leaving education, which we will use your CV to check.

We do understand that it is possible for students to have worked in professional contexts during their course of study.

We also understand that it is possible for recent graduates to possess the required level of expertise to be future leaders in their field.

Your supporting evidence must be for your professional career. We will not accept media recognition for academic work, or proof of appearances in academic programmes of work. For Exceptional Promise we may accept awards evidence to be for full scholarships to recognised art schools, music academies or conservatoires, but not for Exceptional Talent.

We would not expect applications from current students who are not working as professional artists, as a Student visa is more suited for international students. In July 2021 a Graduate visa was also introduced. Further information can be found on the GOV.UK website.

Prestigious Prizes

Exceptional Talent applicants who have won one of the ‘prestigious prizes’ included in Appendix Global Talent: Prestigious Prizes can bypass the Stage 1 application for endorsement. For further details please see GOV.UK guidance.

Contributing to a Prestigious Prize is not acceptable. You must have won 1 for your own work at any time in your career.

Only the prizes shown on the GOV.UK website are acceptable.

Extending your visa

If you receive a visa you could be eligible to extend it or apply for settlement. When applying for an extension or settlement you would need to prove to the Home Office that you have been in paid employment in the area you were endorsed in.

You must also not have had your endorsement withdrawn by an endorsing body.

If your endorsement was withdrawn, you would have been notified of this immediately by the Home Office and your leave would have been removed.

You would not be submitting an extension or settlement application if your endorsement had been withdrawn. You and the Home Office should therefore always be aware of your endorsement status.

You may be asked to submit a copy of your original endorsement form with the extension or settlement application - it is your responsibility to provide this, not ours.

There is no need for you to contact us to check your status or ask for proof of your status. Please see GOV.UK guidance on extending visas.

Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland

England, Scotland, Wales, and Northern Ireland form the United Kingdom. You can apply for the Global Talent visa to live and work in any of these countries, but the visa is still granted by the UK Home Office regardless of which of these countries you plan to live and work in.

It therefore remains the responsibility of Arts Council England as the designated endorsing body for the Global Talent visa to assess applications from artists, creative practitioners, and cultural workers applying to live and work in any area of the United Kingdom.

Where necessary we will share data on application numbers with our counterparts at Creative Scotland, Arts Council Wales and the Arts Council of Northern Ireland, in line with our General Privacy Notice.
